About ifempower

ifempower aims to empower female students to get engaged in entrepreneurship. ifempower investigates the main roles, hindrances, gaps and needs of female entrepreneurs to elaborate an internationally transferable module for university students from any fields to broaden their knowledge on entrepreneurship related topics and to provide hands-on training for their engagement in self-employment and entrepreneurship. The project represents an innovative and participatory approach by developing a mentorship programme for these students through the involvement practicing entrepreneurs. ifempower will also launch personal consultancy services for interested students and an online support toolkit available for the broader public coping with issues rooting in female entrepreneurship.

The first multiplier event of ifempower aims to discover possible synergies between the project and similar projects and initiatives, while introducing the first achievements of ifempower and inviting guest experts to present their work through a pitch session. Through a joint brainstorming session our aim is to facilitate that recommendations formulated by the preparatory research will be channelled to relevant stakeholders who also become familiar with international module.
